WAKEFIELD COLLEGE COURSE INFORMATION:

HND - Photography

In Partnership with Connected Campus and Screen Yorkshire

ART, DESIGN & PHOTOGRAPHY

Wakefield College

Course Overview

On the Higher National Programme in Photography we will encourage and support you to develop your own style and vision in photography, and help you prepare for your future career. If you have a passion for image-making this course will help you to develop necessary skills through technical classes and relevant theoretical knowledge, building a thoughtful, visually creative and innovative portfolio of work.

Set projects are worked on with support from tutors, peers, and portfolio feedback. We also have a selection of client briefs from the local area, work closely with professional photographers who provide guest lectures, workshops and portfolio reviews. Throughout the course you will be encouraged to exhibit your work and enter various competitions.

We have an industry standard studio with specialist lighting, up to date digital software and black and white darkroom facilities.

A variety of teaching and learning methods will be used that encourage and facilitate learners' creative and artistic development and bring together, wherever possible, practice and theory.

Methods used will encourage both independent and collaborative learning through use of practical workshops, interactive lectures, resource-based learning, individual and group work, tutorials, discussion and critiques.

Individual or group projects will culminate in exhibitions. Students will critically reflect on their own performance and that of others.

Residentials, visiting professionals, attendance of exhibitions and other related events will be used to broaden learners' concepts and practice.

What You Will Study

The HND in Photography is designed to equip students with industry skills. Set projects are worked on with support from tutors, peers and portfolio feedback. We also have a selection of client briefs from around the local area, as well as working closely with visiting professional photographers and industries for lectures, workshops and portfolio reviews.
